

The Man

Augustus

Notes found by later Historians who not sure to add them to Updates by Tintagel but placed here as Updates anyway. These writings were in human hand and believed to belong to Augustus William Sutherland. The only surviving examples ever found and subjected to hand writing experts and criminologists for an insight into the emperor's mind.

The historians of the future were arguing as to whether to destroy his electron field so preventing an existence in the after life, ending reincarnation and progression for Augustus would indeed be truly dead then and his crimes against humanity paid.

Augustus William was power running wild and unsheathed in cable.

A man never corrected as a child and responsible for the murder of ten nannies who tried to correct his ways.

His parents were enforcing that the child Augustus was different, royal, the centre of the universe; do not touch just obey him.

Then an assassin struck, a crazed alien ambassador who on a suicide mission blew his father George Apollo Sutherland too bits. The gem gift was in fact a quasar bomb and wiped out the Sutherlands just like that? Not all, one Sutherland escaped and Augustus became emperor.

He was twelve and went to war against that alien planet and conquered it.

It was extinction on a grand scale, never mind, the aliens died with their boots on firm in their religious beliefs so went to heaven and were happy. So was Augustus as crown land he sold the planet off in lots and made a fortune in real estate and so the war was paid.

And from that war the young emperor became known as The Crucifier. It took days to die as garrotting, thumb screws and the rack were delegated back to the dungeon.

Yes Augustus understood his citizens, knew they wanted what he had, power and to abuse it so fostered a corrupt imperial system where the reward was power.

Advancement on the social ladder and at twelve he sat on his gold sofa with a glass of wine in one hand and in the other a girl painted emerald green to match her green eyes.

And Po Wei saw the young emperor would prefer to play so fostered the vices of Augustus to advance his own position.

And the disease was needing a surgeon and the surgeon was The Man.

And the wars against The Man had driven Augustus almost totally insane, for The Man had taken what was Augustus's, New Saturn 12.

So Augustus sought new pleasures to forget The Man and relied on Po Wei to fight the war. Now Po Wei ran the war not to save his Emperor Augustus but his own empire of bribery and vice, for The Man would CONDEMN HIM AS ONE OF THE GUILTY.

Make up your own minds about Augustus, ‘Shed him a tear, he was just a little boy brought up spoiled. Inside he had a soul, a light that under proper instruction could be saved,’ writings at time by the Socialist Order of Thought.

‘And he had a gold chariot and from it he tethered his enemies and his hunting hounds bayed for their dinner,’ Tintagel the Wise, ‘and many of those tethered where from the Socialist Order of Thought.’